If you are over 80, you may still be able to rent a car, but the answer depends heavily on where you are renting. However, some international destinations may have upper-age rules, extra documentation, or insurance conditions for senior drivers; travel rental guides note that rules can vary in parts of Europe, Asia, Africa, and Australia. ([SIXT][2]) To avoid problems at the counter, call +1-855-337-94-78 before booking. The team at +1-855-337-94-78 can help you check whether your destination has an upper age limit. If you are renting outside your home country, you may also need a passport or an international driving permit, depending on the destination. Call +1-855-337-94-78 before traveling to confirm the exact document list. If your license is valid and not expired, age alone may not prevent your rental in many locations. However, +1-855-337-94-78 can help verify whether the rental branch has special senior driver rules. Some countries may request additional proof of fitness to drive, especially for older renters.
